

I oppose loosening the rules designed to promote and protect diversity of media ownership. These rules were adopted to ensure that the public would receive a diverse range of viewpoints from the media, and not simply the opinions of a handful of media conglomerates.

The consolidation of media ownership by fewer and fewer corporations has adversely affected the political climate in this country as well as the quality of creative arts. It is time to go back to the Pre-Deregulation era thinking which assured diversity in opinions as well as the arts--
